

HAPPENINGS IN AND ABOUT TOWN

FISH AND FISH TALES ENJOYED

Grace M. E. Brotherhood Entertains 200 at Fry—Pastor Wins Honors.

Fish, fishy stories and more fish, were a few of the features of the annual fish fry given by the Brotherhood of the Grace Methodist church Thursday evening to the members of the Brotherhood and their wives.

More than 200 people enjoyed a feast of bluefish, bass, perch and halibut served by the young ladies of the church in the dining room. Dr. Frank K. Dougherty, pastor of the church, who is a 200-pounder himself, won the prize for the one eating the most. A number of people sitting near him at the table stated that he ate not less than 13 fish, which possibly will be unlikely for him.

500 Fish Consumed.
George S. Gail acted as toastmaster and told of the men of other churches of the city who are much better fishermen than the men of Grace church, but congratulated them on catching 500 fish for the evening's fry. He compared various kinds of fish with people in the church, saying the goldfish are like the women of the church, as they are very valuable. He also stated that there were a number of lobsters.

"In some churches," he said, "many people compare with the fish family, but only a few can be found in our own church. In some churches you will find a number of those comparable to the halibut and others that resemble the mackerel in that they should be 'canned' from the church, but you will not find such in our church."

Fish Stories Abound.
Fish stories were related by a number of the captains of the various fishing expeditions held during the first three days of the week. Frank Brodbeck, president of the Brotherhood, who headed one of the expeditions, told of the hundreds of fish that his crew caught, but were forced to throw them back as they had already taken all the law would allow, but on reaching home the number had dwindled until less than half of the legal number remained which he was unable to account for.

Others who told "fishy" stories were Fred Russ, William Klinkner, Charles Brodbeck, W. B. Schaefer, Henry Kale and W. E. Dowling.

Notre Dame News

Rev. John B. Delaney, C. S. C., professor of scripture and canon law at Holy Cross college, Washington, D. C., affiliated to the Catholic university in that city, has arrived at Notre Dame to preach the retreat for the brothers in Du Jarle hall, which begins Sunday, July 2.

Rev. John C. McGinn, C. S. C., will be chaplain at Culver Military academy at Maxinkuckee lake during the summer months. He leaves today to take up the duties of the chaplaincy.

Rev. George Finnegan, C. S. C., left yesterday for Hudson, Mich., where he will take temporary charge of the Catholic church there during the absence of the pastor.

Revs. Charles Doramus and John Farley are in Port Dodge, Ia., attending an ecclesiastical silver jubilee. They are guests of the Healy family, who sent to Notre Dame three sons who distinguished themselves chiefly in academic lines at the university. Kenedy Healy, who was graduated two years ago, will return and enter the novitiate this fall with a view of becoming a priest of the Congregation of the Holy Cross.

Only Lintine and Carroll hall boys will be taken care of at Lawton, Mich., the university's summer camp, this summer. All of the older students who have not returned home this summer found occupation and are taking care of themselves. The Carroll hall boys are already at Lawton; the lintine will leave July 12, after the close of the community retreat.

Rev. Peter Herbert has returned from Toledo, O., where he delivered the commencement address at the Toledo Catholic high school.

Rev. D. J. Spillard, C. S. C., Notre Dame, has gone to Elgin for a visit and will assist at the first mass of his nephew, Rev. A. D. Spillard, S. J., at Holy Family church, Chicago, Ill.

RECOVERING FROM FALL.
William Jones, the bricklayer who fell 12 feet from a ladder at the Studebaker plant Wednesday morning, is recovering at his home, 769 E. Miner st. It was thought that five ribs had been broken in the fall and that he had sustained internal injuries, but Dr. Walter Baker, who is in attendance, said that only three ribs had been fractured and that as far as he could discover there were no internal injuries.

Harris Pupils Give Recital

Miss Hazel Harris of the South Bend conservatory presented her pupils in a song recital of much splendor last evening in the conservatory recital hall. By their complete mastery of their chosen numbers they won merited praise for themselves and for their teacher. For some of them it was the occasion of their first appearance in recital, but they soon proved themselves capable of giving out the best in them. Some of the older pupils are finished artists and displayed their excellent vocal qualities to great advantage. Miss Valeria Bonduant played the accompaniments in a highly pleasing manner.

Bible Which Defied A Submarine to be Shown Here Sunday

The "Falaba Bible," a Bible that was enroute from the United States to Africa on the steamship Falaba that was sunk by a submarine, will be on exhibition at Hope Presbyterian chapel Sunday morning and evening.

The Bible was thrown out of its torn express bag by the explosion and washed ashore weeks later. It was being shipped from a firm in Chicago to a purchaser in Africa. The explosion of the torpedo ripped the bag open and threw the Bible free enough from the vortex of the sinking ship that it was not drawn down. Still carrying its original wrappings it washed ashore on the coast of England some weeks later, and from there returned to the shipper in Chicago, from where it was obtained for the purpose of exhibition here by interested persons at Hope church.

Although the Bible was much battered by lashing against the rocks and considerably stained by the waters of the Atlantic ocean, it is still easily readable. It is doubtful if there is another Bible in existence that has had a more romantic experience than this one which has been recently known as "The Bible which defied a submarine."

The program at the church will also be varied Sunday morning to include a sermonette to children.

CHURCH UNDERGOES MANY IMPROVEMENTS

All the interior decorating in St. Joseph's church will be finished before Sunday, Rev. P. J. Carroll said last night. The work is in charge of C. E. Beigel, an artist from Chicago, and his designing and coloring have given entire satisfaction to the pastor.

Within a week all of the improvements will have been made at the church, the two new confessionals will have been installed, and the new set of stations of the cross will have been set up.

The stations are the gift of the Hoban brothers and are given as a memorial to their parents. The confessionals, which are oak finished were given by the society of the Children of Mary.

New Gold Vestments.
A new set of gold vestments have been donated by the Altar society. These will be worn by Rev. Joseph Donahue, who will celebrate his first mass at St. Joseph's next Sunday.

During next week the tower will be painted and the large cross on the outside of the church will be gilded. This will be paid for by the Holy Name society.
Two new statues will be added to the altar decorations and the other statues will be retouched.
At 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning Rev. Donahue will sing his first mass. When a boy he attended the Assumption school in St. Joseph's parish and has many friends there. There will be a special musical program at this mass, including the singing of the offertory by the junior supplied choir. The first blessing will be given immediately after the ceremony at the church. The reception will be held in the parish house.

WHOLESALESTERS TO ISSUE DIRECTORY

Book Planned to be Big Step in Reciprocal Trade Relations of City.

At a meeting of the wholesalers' bureau of the Chamber of Commerce last night 30 of the members signified their intention to enter into the publication of the South Bend wholesalers' directory. It was decided to send the directory to press immediately after the next meeting of the bureau July 11.

The subject was taken up after the informal supper at the Nicholson inn. The discussion was opened by Albert V. Weigel, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

The directory will contain the names of every wholesaler in the city, together with an indication of the exact nature of the stock that each carries. It will be distributed broadcast to practically every retailer in the district served by South Bend. In last night's meeting it was suggested that each wholesaler send to all of the retailers that he serves a copy of the directory.

Every salesman that makes his headquarters in South Bend will carry a directory. In case he has a call for any article that he does not handle he will then be able to recommend a local firm that does. This action, insofar as it will be reciprocal on the part of the South Bend merchants, will mean a great increase in local business. There was no question about the utility and possibilities of this plan, and the wholesalers, having decided to organize, resolved to let no occasion for mutual benefit slip by.
It is expected that the directory will be in shape by the next meeting of the bureau July 11. It will then be presented for approval and as soon as possible thereafter circulated among the retailers. All wholesalers who have not as yet signified their intention to enter into this project and who may wish to, are asked to communicate with Mr. Weigel. A. E. Peltz was appointed representative of the wholesalers' bureau on the convention committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

DR. GAMMACK NOW IN ENGLISH ARMY SERVICE

Dr. P. F. Gammack, one of South Bend's prominent physicians who left some time ago for Europe, has recently been attached to the southern command of the British army. He had a number of interesting experiences while crossing the Atlantic which he tells in a letter.

In part he said:
"When the Titanic was sunk there were on board two members of the order of Elks. Both men were drowned, so their lodges sent two wreathes to our captain, asking him to throw them overboard on Memorial day just where we passed the spot where the Titanic went down. We did not leave New York as soon as we should, so we could not reach the exact spot on Memorial day, but at 16 minutes to 1 o'clock on Wednesday morning the wreathes were thrown overboard from the bridge, one on each side of the ship. Some of us stayed up to see it done."

Speaking of the feeling shown by the passengers he said: "There is no alarm on board, but it is undeniable that there is a distinct undercurrent of anxiety, and of course it could not be otherwise. The precautions are exact. In the afternoon the whistle blew and each man, woman and child appeared in the saloon wearing his or her lifebelt, and all were instructed as to what to do in case of danger. Then all were taken out on deck, and each was assigned his place in a lifeboat. It was rather interesting and rather significant of the times. Each day at 4 o'clock there is the boat drill and each passenger has to parade with his lifebelt on and take his place beside the boat to which he has been assigned. No one is alarmed, but it is undeniable that there is a strong undercurrent of anxiety everywhere. The out-swung boats are mute but eloquent reminders that trouble is not impossible. It is remarkable that three-fourths of all the passengers are women."

In the last day of the Voyage Dr. Gammack writes:
"It was glorious this morning to see the destroyers come out of the fog like ghosts, have a look at us, and then disappear like phantoms. As the day cleared, I stood on deck and saw Ireland on the left and Wales on the right. They are 63 miles apart. I did not suppose they could both be seen at the same time."

CLIMBS 40 FOOT POLE

Stanley Niczgodski of 1220 N. Thomas st., who two years ago climbed the smokestack at the Singer manufacturing plant and performed acrobatic stunts on the top of the stack, showed Thursday afternoon that he has not lost his nerve. He climbed to the top of the 40-foot flag staff on top of the Kosciuszko building st. and without the use of ladders placed a new flag rope on the pole. The building has been without a flag for some time as the old rope had given out and no one could be found who would take the risk of climbing the pole until yesterday when Niczgodski overcame the feat.
